A few meters from the famous Maeght Foundation, this unique villa offers an exceptional living environment, combining art, design and nature. With a surface area of 400 m², this residence was imagined and designed by the artist Jean-Claude Farhi, whose influence is omnipresent, both in the architecture and in the decoration. Every corner of the house bears witness to his artistic universe, with original works and objects collected during his travels around the world, thus creating an atmosphere that is both warm and inspiring. The villa opens onto a large 5000 m² garden, a veritable green setting which invites relaxation and contemplation. The main house consists of three spacious bedrooms, each with its own private bathroom. The double living room, with its magnificent glass roof, is a friendly place where you can enjoy breathtaking views of the garden and the surrounding nature. The integrated video projector transforms this space into a real private cinema. The kitchen, under another glass roof, is a bright and welcoming place, with an adjoining dining room. Outside, the swimming pool and the flat, green garden provide an idyllic setting for relaxing, swimming or enjoying the tranquility of the surroundings. A true haven of peace, where art and nature
